5010-6 Dyed Rabbit Skins

DYED BREEDER RABBIT SKINS

These skins are ideal for use in trim for mukluks, gauntlets, and parkas where heavey fur is preferred. Also lovely for display or other craft projects.

The Spanish breeder rabbits are about 1.5 to 3 times the size of a regular rabbit and the hair tends to be heavier than that of the typical Spanish rabbit, but not as heavy as on rabbits from Hungary or the Czech Republic. (See grading notes on the previous page for more detail.) (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED BETTER GRADE RABBIT SKINS

These dyed rabbit skins are made using our Better Grade Rabbit Skins from Spain. With the exception of the black-dyed skins (which have been dyed in Spain), all of the skins have been dyed professionally in the U.S. using high-quality dyes. You will be impressed with the quality of the dye job, especially with the fluorescent skins--a difficult job to get right at the best of times. These skins have excellent fur quality and are soft and supple.

Please note that the dyed rabbits have a slight chemical odor as a result of being dyed. It is possible to air them out by hanging them up. See the website for a color chart. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

The skins dyed in Spain (see below) are comparable quality and much cheaper. The skins dyed in the USA offer hard-to-find colors.

DYED RABBIT SKINS

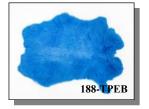

These rabbit skins are dyed in Spain using a mix of first and second grade skins. For years we have called these craft grade skins because we originally bought a third grade skin. However, the tannery has only offered first and second grade dyed skins and we are dropping the "craft" name for these skins. They tend to be quite nice and are suitable for selling as a novelty item or for using in making items. Overall, they are great value for the money. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED TRADING POST RABBIT SKINS

The Dyed Trading Post rabbit skins are suited for craft projects that can use weak hair coverage. The skins can be smaller and misshaped. This is the lowest grade skin we can dye, so do not expect a gorgeous, heavily haired rabbit. If you are cutting them into small pieces, they may work just fine. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

Product of Spain

The Dyed Electric Blue has a limited supply. The dye job is not consistent and there are more problems than normal within each skin. These skins are great for cutting up or selling as is. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED CZECH FEMALE RABBIT SKINS

The Dyed Czech Female rabbit skins are dyed using clear white #1/#2 skins. These are the nicest rabbit skins we have ever seen. Our supplier hand-picks each skin. He sorts tens of thousands of skins and only keeps the best 5% to 20% depending upon the run and time of the year. These are the best of the best. They are soft-tanned, big, and very heavily furred. They are ideal for resale or for craft projects requiring excellent material. The fur is denser and the skin is typically much heavier than on regular Spanish fryer rabbits. These are perfect for trim on parkas, mukluks, and gauntlets. They also make exceptionally nice massage mitts and lovely blankets. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED GARMENT GRADE RABBIT SKINS

These skins are graded on their hair quality. The Spanish Garment grade skins are lighter weight skins ideally suited to the fashion industry. The graders are looking for skins with consistent hair length that are free of imperfections. They are not heavy, female skins suited for bulky Eskimo parka trim or mukluk trim. The quality is the best you will see from Spain. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED REX RABBIT SKINS

These Dyed #1 rex rabbit skins are currently only available in Size B (139.5 square inches or 900 square cm per skin). Please note that some skins will be a bit smaller because the skins tend to shrink somewhat when dyed. You will be impressed with the quality of the dye job. These skins will not lose their color if they get wet. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).

DYED CUT- UP GRADE RABBIT SKINS

Cut-Up Grade skins are lower-quality skins that have good fur, but have major cosmetic defects. These skins can be small, misshapen, have extensive tears, holes or bald spots in the middle of the skin, or have patches of bad hair on them. They are unsuitable for resale as novelty skins, but are ideal for cutting up into smaller pieces for craft projects. These are good value for the money if you need good fur and can work around the problems. Limited supply. (Oryctolagus cuniculus, ranch).
