BEAVER SKINS

These are natural skins that have not been dyed or sheared. Most are nut brown. The fur is generally very good, as these are winter, under-the-ice, beaver. (Castor Canadensis, wild).

Product of Canada or the USA

The Reject grade skins have extensive damage (weak hair, hair slips, tears, holes, stiff areas on the hide, etc.) and are suitable for projects requiring small areas of fur. The Craft grade beaver are generally ideal for crafts. There will be large sections of useable fur and soft skin. The #2/#3 grade beaver have minor imperfections (weak hair or irregular shape) and generally look like a full beaver skin. The #1 grade beaver skins have full hair coverage that is consistently good. The Fashion Quality beaver are truly luxurious and the best quality available anywhere.

BLACK BEAR SKINS

Not for sale in all states.

Requires CITES permit for export.

Product of Canada or the USA

We have a selection of heavily furred, black bear skins that have been commercially tanned. The skins have a face, but do not include the skull and are not mounted (no eyes, teeth, etc.) The skins average 4½ feet long from the nose to the tip of the tail and are about 2 feet wide. They lie flat and do not need a backing. The Craft Grade skins are soft tanned. They do not include claws. The legs and heads may have extensive damage or be missing completely. They are ideal for use in craft projects. (Ursus americanus, wild).

FOX SKINS

In general, the foxes are cased (i.e., not split open). They usually measure about 2 to 3 feet in body length and have a tail that is about one foot long for a total of 3 to 4 feet. Please note that the measurements shown for each type of fox are based on the average size of some foxes that we had in the past and, as with any natural product, there will be variation in size within each species. Ranch-raised foxes can be significantly bigger than wild ones.

Arctic Foxes measure about 29" from the tip of the nose to the base of the tail. They are usually cased. Our taxidermy quality fox skins are rare and are suitable for life-size mounts. (Vulpes lagopus, wild).

RUSSIAN GRAY SQUIRREL SKINS

The Russian gray squirrels are about twice the size of a pine squirrel and have tufted ears. The #1 skins are 18" to 22" long from the tip of the nose to the tip of the tail. They are 12" to 14" long from the tip of the nose to the base of the tail. The tails are 6" to 8" long. The #2 skins are 16" to 18" long from tip to tip. Both are 2" to 2½" wide. The #1 skins are cased, while the #2 skins are open and do not have tails. (Sciurus vulgaris, wild).

STRIPED SKUNK SKINS

54-TP

54-QT

The skunks come in a range of sizes but average about 18" long from the tip of the nose to the base of the tail. The Craft Grade skins are damaged, missing the head or have no stripe. These are great for making the sides of skunk hats. The Trading Post skins are medium size skins with a good body, decent face and tail, and a yellowish tint in the stripe. The Large Skunks are good quality skins with a nice white stripe. The Premium Skunks are heavier, XL skins with nice fur and a clear white stripe. The Skunks with Feet are good quality skins with feet. The Quick Tan skunk skins are washed but not tanned. They are stiff with good hair but no tails. (Mephitis mephitis, wild).
